SALOONKEEPERS' LICENSE EXPIRE END OF MONTH

THE PROPRIETORS WILL COMMENCE MAKING APPLICATION FOR RENEWALS THE LAST OF NEXT WEEK—PROBABILITIES ARE THAT A NUMBER OF LICENSES WILL BE TAKEN AWAY, W. M. MITCHELL BEING ONE THE BOARDS HAVE IN VIEW TO LOOK INTO, IF HE APPLIES.

About the last of next week all the saloonkeepers of the city will commence filing with the city clerk applications for renewal of their licenses that expire the last of this month, all taking the grants out the first of this year for a period of six months. It is understood that the general council intends refusing to renew the licenses of several of the saloonists on account of the character of establishments the proprietors have been conducting. One license in particular the legislative boards have in mind is that of W. M. Mitchell, of 1,000 North Tenth street, he being the man convicted of furnishing beer to customers one Sunday six weeks ago, and whose license was revoked by the mayor, but the grant to do business restored Mitchell by Acting Police Judge Eugene Graves on the technicality that the mayor did not issue the order of revocation until an hour or two after Mitchell had appealed to the circuit court the conviction and fine imposed in the police tribunal.

There are a number of other saloons of the city that have been complained about the question of renewing these licenses will undergo an investigation before action is taken.

There are ninety saloons in the city at present and possibly all of the owners will apply for their licenses to be renewed for six months, that being the length of time for which a grant is made. The semi-annual fee being $75, this means $6,750 will be thrown into the city treasury from this source at the end of the month, if all renewals are favorably acted upon. Each saloonkeeper leaves his application with the city clerk, who will hand them in to the council the first Monday in next month, and the aldermen the following Thursday, for consideration. If quite a number are opposed by complaints, it is probable that these will all be held up and the charges threshed out by the license committee, as done last year, so the entire two full boards will not be bothered with looking into the charge details.

The ordinance restricting the number of saloons to one for every 500 population, is being held in abeyance, awaiting consideration by both boards of an amendment to be offered, making it impossible for any proprietor to transfer his license to any other party. It has not yet been decided when the joint meeting will be held to consider the amendment.

THIRD CLOUDBURST IN ONE WEEK IN CENTRAL AND EASTERN KENTUCKY

Lexington, Ky., June 13.—The third cloudburst in a week passed over Central and Eastern Kentucky during the night and this morning doing almost incalculable damage to crops, farmsteads and lowlands along rivers. In Clark, Montgomery, Bourbon, Bath, Fleming, Scott, Nichols, Lee, Wolfe, Rowan, Carter, Boyd and other counties, corn, tobacco and wheat land was washed by the land sliding and opening fissures several inches deep in the ground. In many sections crops practically are ruined. The Kentucky, Big Sandy, Red, Cumberland and Licking rivers are threatened with inundation. All the rivers in the mountains are filled with logs, thousands of which will be lost.

Hailstones as large as guinea eggs fell here last night. Two valuable brood mares were killed in Franklin county by lightning. One was Queen Louise, owned by George W. J. Bissell, of Pittsburg. Trains for Eastern Kentucky, are all running slow, fearing washouts.

ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP

Captured by America at International Horse Show in London.

London, June 13.—America captured another championship at the international horse show here today. Auditor B. A. B. MacLay's chestnut gelding, winning the cup presented by Sir Lees Knowles, for the best light harness horse, for which there was the keenest competition.

Walter Wiman's Barney F was awarded the second prize in tandems, exceeding 15 hands and not exceeding 15.2.

C. W. Watson, of Baltimore, took first prize with Lord Baltimore and My Maryland, and Mrs. A. Beck, of Canada, second prize with Lord and Lady Norfolk, and Alfred G. Vanderbilt third, prize with Columbia and High Boy in the tandem class for horses exceeding 15.2.

JAMESTOWN TRIP.

Will Be Taken By the Kentucky State Guard Next Month.

Jamestown, Va., June 13.—Unless present plans fail, the Kentucky State Guard will camp here some time during July. The first regiment is expected to leave home on July 1, departing from the exposition on July 10. It will be succeeded by the Third regiment. At the close of the ten days the latter regiment will be succeeded in camp by the Second regiment.

An Exposition Without Liquor.

In tendering its campus of 355 acres for the purpose of the Pan-Pacific exposition, to be held in Seattle in 1909, the University of Washington included a condition to the effect that no liquors may be sold within two miles of these state university grounds. The agreement has been reached, and the grounds are leased by the board under the condition stated.

MAYOR DROWNED; ALL SPRINGFIELD MOURNS.

David S. Griffiths Perished in Slough on Way to Fishing Party.

Springfield, Ill., June 13.—Mayor David S. Griffiths, in office but two months, met death yesterday by drowning in a slough on the south fork of the Sangamon river.

The mayor was driving with Fire Chief Peter Jacobs. Neither man could swim and the efforts of the fire marshal to save the life of the city executive were vain.

The two men attempted to drive over a submerged bridge across the slough. The horse missed the bridge and plunged into the water, dragging the vehicle into the stream. The buggy overturned and the mayor, a man of exceptionally short stature, was pinned underneath the animal.

Although the body of Griffiths was recovered forty-five minutes after the accident, life was extinct. The remains were conveyed in an automobile to this city.

Mayor Griffith was but thirty-two years of age and was personally known to practically the entire population. He was a universal favorite.

Anxious crowds hung about bulletin boards of the newspapers until it became known that the mayor had really been drowned. When the remains were recovered the news was telephoned into the city, and the fire bell, which can be heard all over the city, was set tolling.

All flags which had been hoisted in observance of Flag Day were lowered to half mast and the walls of the City Hall were draped in great streamers of crepe.

INFLAMMATORY MATTER BARRED.

Japanese Newspaper Men Must Refrain From Agitating American Question.

Tokio, June 13.—The newspaper men of this city were summoned to appear before the home department today and were then officially advised to abstain from the publication of any matter of an inflammatory or agitating nature upon the American question.

BISHOP ADVOCATES WOMAN PARSONS.

Claims They Would Reclaim Most Stubborn-Hearted.

St. Louis, June 13.—That a woman in the capacity of a preacher can subdue the stubborn hearts of the unchurched or indifferent members of a congregation with far greater success than a mere man is the opinion of Bishop Wilson T. Hogue, of the Free Methodist Church of America. He will introduce the subject of women's pastoral duties in his episcopal address at the General Conference of the Free Methodist Church to convene at Greenville, Ill., this afternoon, and to continue in session for three weeks.

The sentiments of Bishop Hogue's address have been endorsed by the College of Bishops of the church, and with this recommendation the subject will be thrashed out in the convention.

The annual address will be delivered by Bishop Hogue, who, for the past few days, has been visiting the Free Methodist Church of St. Louis, at No. 2721 Pine street, of which the Reverend J. H. Flower is pastor.

Those opposed to women becoming ordained declare that they recognize the right of the fair sex to preach, that this is primarily their function, but add that certain obligations which must go with ministerial duties, would embarrass her.

For instance, she could not, they say, wade into the water with her skirts to perform the sacrament of baptism.

Other questions of importance are destined to come before the convention, which will be made prominent because of the proposed changes in its church polity. Among the new provisions will be the establishment of organized young people's societies, which heretofore have not existed in this church.

The Free Methodist Church is a branch of Methodism established on a more democratic form.

CRAZY WOMAN'S AWFUL DEED.

Attempts to Kill Her Children and Fatally Wounds Herself.

Memphis, Tenn., June 13.—Becoming demented suddenly, Mrs. T. Green Adair, wife of a farmer near Dumas, Miss., placed her three-year-old son on a bed and fired one load from a shotgun at him. She missed the child. She immediately sat down on the floor, and placing the muzzle of the gun against her head, pulled the trigger. The lower portion of her face was blown off. She will die.

THREE ARMENIANS MAY BE THE MURDERERS

DETECTIVE MOORE GETS WORD TO KEEP LOOKOUT AND THINKS THAT MAYBE THE TWO PASSING THROUGH HERE ARE THE GUILTY ONES—COMPLAINT OF LEWD WOMEN UPON STREETS A NO IN PUBLIC PLACES—PARHAM GOODS WERE NOT FOUND—BUSINESS OF THE POLICE.

Detective T. J. Moore believes he is on the trail of three Armenians who murdered a prominent Catholic priest in New York, but it will take developments to show whether he is on the right clue. He has received a letter from the police commissioner of New York requesting that a lookout be kept for the three murderers who are thought to be headed through this section of the country. The communication states that they killed the priest, robbed him and then skipped out.

Two or three weeks ago three Armenians reached this city on a steamboat and could not talk to any one on account of being unable to speak the English language. They stopped off here, remained a day or two, and then proceeded on down the river. They sought for some Armenian in this city to secure some character of information, but being unable to find any, had to proceed on the best way possible.

Now the detective has received the letter asking that the three Armenian murderers be looked for, and presuming that these three may be the men, he is following them down the river as far as possible.

Brazen Effrontery.

Considerable complaint has been made regarding the brazen effrontery of a number of lewd and dissolute women of this city, who seem to consider themselves privileged characters, as they have not been bothered by the authorities thus far, but orders have gone out to them to conduct themselves with a little more decorum, else action will have to be taken. It is a daily sight to witness some of these women, gaudily attired, parading the streets with men escorts and forcing themselves into throngs of respectable people, and their are also frequently seen out driving, at the theaters and other places of attraction.

There is a heavy penalty for a dissolute woman to walk a public thoroughfare or appear in public with a man, while the same penalty of a fine is prescribed for the man accompanying the lewd women, the laws in this respect being to compel a man to have respect enough for himself to keep out of the public's gaze with these women, and also to teach the women that the lives they lead do not entitle them to intermingles with respectable people.

Goods Not Found.

Frank Parham yesterday got out a warrant and had the house of Kate Crossling, colored, searched, believing there was concealed in her home some goods that had been stolen from the Parham residence. Officers took the warrant and went to the female's home, but could find nothing, although they searched high and low. It was thought that things were concealed there by Will Dixon, the negro man held to the grand jury yesterday morning on the charge of breaking into the Parham residence.

In trying Dixon, Judge Cross had to adjourn court from the regular assembly room out to the sidewalk beside the city hall on account of Mr. Parham being a sufferer from locomotor ataxia and cannot walk, therefore he could not come into the court room. The court went out to him and let him testify and identify articles while he sat in his buggy.

Looking for Housebreaker. Chief of Police Collins yesterday got a letter from Sheriff T. J. Stormont, of Atoka, Miss., asking that a lookout be kept for a young Jew named Frank Parmer, who is wanted there on the charge of breaking into a hardware establishment a week or two ago and stealing quite a number of valuables. Sheriff Stormont said they had traced Parmer as far as Jackson, Tenn., where he was several days ago, headed for Paducah. A reward of $75 is offered for capture of the fugitive.

Not Wanted Here. The police got a message over the long distance telephone system yesterday from Cairo asking if Harry Oliver was wanted here for cutting some one in a saloon about six months ago. The Cairo authorities have him under surveillance and understood he was wanted in Paducah, but he is not, so state the local authorities.

Breach of Ordinance. Gus B. Wright and Willis Westbrook were arrested yesterday by Officers Johnson and Cross on breach of ordinance charges.

Some One Struck Her. Report was made to the police that some one struck and badly injured Fannie Dixon, colored, last night down in the lower end of the city. The officers are working on the case.

BASEBALL NOTES.

The Cincinnati Club has turned Pitcher Bill Essick back to the Portland club.

The Cincinnati club is reported as negotiating with St. Louis for Pitcher Charles Brown.

President Dovey has scouts out on the trail for two good catchers. That's a scarce article.

Big Ben Brothers thinks that the New York giants have the best staff of pitchers in the country.

Burke, the outfielder that McGraw turned over to Boston, is making a very favorable impression.

Up to May 15, Christy Mathewson had won 155 victories in the national league and had met defeat 83 times. It is stated that McGraw has given up his billiard room at Broadway and Forty-second street, New York city.

Brooklyn has released Pitcher McLane, formerly with Fordham, to Wilmington, the tail-end of the Tri-State league.

Lober's without doubt one of the greatest finds of the last two years, and reminds one very much of our old friend Herman Long.

Manager Hanlon, of Cincinnati, states most emphatically, that he is not thinking of either trading Mike Mowrey or returning to the Eastern league, whence he came.

A HOPELESS CASE.

"Yes," said the business man, "I have given up trying to collect that little bill from Bilkins. You see, he is a big, muscular fellow, and he used to throw my collectors out."

"Then why didn't you employ a woman collector?" quired a fellow tradesman. "He couldn't do that to a woman."

"That's what I thought so I got one and sent her around, but she never came back."

"Why not?" "He married her."—Spare Moments.

KENTUCKY-TENNESSEE COAL CONVENTION

REPRESENTATIVE ASSEMBLY OF PROMINENT BUSINESS MEN NOW IN THE CITY ATTENDING THE GATHERING—WILLIAM H. FARLEY CHOSEN VICE PRESIDENT, WHILE KNOXVILLE, TENN., IS NA MED AS PLACE FOR HOLDING THE 1908 MEETING—INITIATIONS INTO "ORDER OF KO-KOAL."

President—Charles R. Roth of Knoxville, Tenn.

Vice President—William H. Farley of Paducah.

Treasurer—John B. Payne of Lexington, Ky.

Directors—Y. J. Prescott of Memphis to succeed E. Mahan of Knoxville, Tenn.; and M. C. Forbes of Hopkinsville, Ky., to succeed Stanley Adams of Louisville.

The above were the officers chosen yesterday during the first day of the annual convention being held here at the Eagles' Home on Sixth and Broadway by the Kentucky-Tennessee Retail Coal Merchants Association, and the selections comprise men well known in this business throughout the two states. Knoxville, Tenn., was named as the place for gathering in 1908, the exact date to be designated by the board of directors.

The convention is a body consisting of prominent and representative business men of different cities of Kentucky and Tennessee, and they are conducting a most enjoyable and profitable gathering.

When the convention was called to order yesterday morning, the following, in addition to the local merchants, were found present:

Y. E. Atkinson, Clarksville, Tenn.; J. I. Patton, Paris, Tenn.; John Kelley, Jellico, Tenn.; Jellico Coal Company; W. C. Williams, Camden Coal company, Louisville; J. C. Buckner, Buckner and Yeat, Hopkinsville; G. B. Underwood, Hopkinsville; G. S. Chenning, Hall and Chenning, Shelbyville; B. G. Dickinson, Dickinson Bros., Glasgow; Y. E. Cooper, Knoxville; C. F. Roth, Roth & Roth, Knoxville; C. B. Pennebaker, City Coal company, Cairo; J. A. Webb, Guthrie; E. F. Price, Gallatin Coal company, Gallatin, Tenn.; Harry Hammerly, A. F. Hammerly and son, Jackson, Tenn.; L. H. Cable, Knoxville, Tenn.; C. C. Sullins, Knoxville; Chester Sullins, Knoxville; J. H. Rose, Combs & Rose, Pembroke; Y. C. Forters, Hopkinsville; C. H. Bradford, Chattanooga; C. M. Riker, Paducah; C. W. Eades, Memphis; J. M. Humphrey, J. R. Shanklin & Co., Cincinnati; J. L. Hull, Chicago; Morton Hiseox, Chicago; Y. J. Prescott, Memphis; G. G. Fristoe, Mayfield.

The members were registered at 9 o'clock and Mayor Yeiser delivered the address of welcome at 10 o'clock, the response to same being presented by Mr. Y. T. Murphy of Martin, Tenn. President W. C. Williams then presented his annual report, showing a healthy and flourishing organization with many affiliates, and constantly increasing in size.

Mr. William Farley spoke on "A Local Association to the State Association," this being followed by Secretary Geo. C. Tabb's annual document, detailing the workings of the organization.

"How I Found the Retail Coal Business in Knoxville" was presented by Mr. W. C. Sullens of that city, in absence of Mr. Ralph Rogers, who was programmed for that address. "A Word from Western Kentucky Operators" was talked of by Mr. Frank M. Fisher, who took this subject on the outline for the day in place of Mr. C. M. Rudd, who is absent at his home in Memphis.

A general discussion was then indulged in as to "Shall We Incorporate?" and the body decided to incorporate, but left it to the board of directors with power to act as to whether they shall incorporate under the laws of Kentucky or Tennessee. This brought the morning session to a close and adjournment was taken for dinner. At 2:30 p. m. the body reconvened and Mr. W. T. Atkinson of Clarksville, Tenn., presented the treasurer's reports, showing good financial condition. At 3:30 address on "Order of Kokoa" was made by Arthur M. Hull of Chicago, who is the editor of the "Retail Coal Man." The order is one which degrades are conferred, being a sort of side issue, to which only coal handlers are eligible to membership, just like the "Hoo-Hoos," to lumber dealers.

That closed the afternoon session, and last night a meeting was held at which time seventeen of the dealers joined the "Order of Kokoa."

The Paducah merchants are causing the visitors to enjoy themselves thoroughly, and extending true Kentucky hospitality everywhere, the guests all being loud in their praises of the many comforts and pleasures arranged for them. Following the initiations last evening a general social session was indulged in and a

Today's program is:

MARRIAGE OF DEAF MUTES.

Miss Hord, of This County, Becomes The Bride of Mr. Whitman, of Louisville.

Harry Whitney, of Louisville, and Miss Sarah H. Hord, of this county, both being deaf and dumb, were married Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hord, four miles east of the city on the Greenville road, says the Hopkinsville New Era. The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. E. H. Bull, of this city, a brother of the bride acting as an interpreter.

The prospective groom was accompanied to the office of County Clerk Campbell by a brother of the bride, who is also a deaf mute. Mr. Whitney made known his wants by writing it on a piece of paper, and the license was promptly issued.

The ceremony was witnessed by a large concourse of friends and relatives. When the couple took their places the officiating minister repeated a sentence at a time of the marriage ceremony to the brother of the bride, and he in turn repeated it to the bride and groom by means of the mute alphabet. When the different parts of the ceremony would be completed the contracting parties showed that they thoroughly understood what had been told them by the nimble fingers of the interpreter, for their heads nodded in the affirmative sign promptly and positively.

The bride is an unusually pretty young lady. The groom is a skilled iron moulder by trade and holds a responsible position with a Louisville firm. Mr. and Mrs. Whitney are with the bride's parents today but will leave in the morning for the groom's home where they will reside.

THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLAR FIRE LOSS IN VERSAILLES.

The Helm Memorial Library Building Destroyed With All the Books

Versailles, Ky., June 13.—The Helm memorial library building, John Y. Rout's drug store and William S. Berry's stove and tinware store burned at 1 o'clock this morning, and E. R. Woodward's brick livery stable was badly damaged, entailing an aggregate loss of nearly $30,000, on which there is $21,600 insurance. The origin of the fire, which started in the cellar of Rout's drug store is unknown. The library suffered the total loss of its books.

Birds Know Sunday.

All the animal world seems to know a Sunday from a week day. There is a tradition in Lancashire, and perhaps elsewhere, that the rooks always commence building on the first Sunday in March. This has been frequently verified by observation and the punctuality of the rooks might almost claim to exceed the limits of coincidence. Country Life.

1-3 THE POPULATION of Greater Paducah

Will reside between Broadway, Mayfield road, 19th street and Wallace park (39th st.)—the drift is right now in that direction—sidewalks are ordered out Broadway to 25th—street railway has been extended south on 19th street—sewerage No. 3 comes up to Jackson and 25th street. The handsomest homes are now building at 29th and Broadway. The next great thoroughfare paralleling Broadway and splitting this section through the center is Ohio street, as all the other parallel streets are blocked off at 28th street by hilly ground. Ohio street runs through from 19th street to Wallace park (39th st.)—one mile and a half, on a smooth easy grade. Steps are now being taken to make this one of the finest boulevards in the state of Kentucky and the foundation has been laid by the purchase by one party of all the property on both sides of Ohio street from 25th to 30th streets. Street widened to 60 feet between the curbs—Broadway between the business houses across the sidewalks is only 66 feet. The sidewalks are 15 feet wide—lots front from 50 to 65 feet; alleys 20 feet. From 27th to 28th has been donated for a public park—this has all been platted and recorded. To bring about this great improvement for our future city it is now only necessary for the owners of property on each end of this five blocks to plat theirs to match, and the boulevard is done that will last forever. If the owners on each end are so short sighted as to make Ohio street the dimensions of an ordinary street then this five blocks will be exclusive property and high priced because there is so little of it. If you own one of these lots and Ohio street is made into a long boulevard—you make money—if there is only 5 blocks of exclusive property; you make money. So an investment in a few of these lots is a winner either way you take it—only 20 lots will be sold during 1907.

COLLECT THE CITY TAXES

TREASURER DORIAN HAS ALREADY RECEIVED FOR $6,024.

Great Rush Will Not Occur Until Last Week of Month, as Many Wait Until Final Moment.

Thus far this month City Treasurer John J. Dorian has collected $6,024.98 in city taxes from property owners, and does not expect the great rush until week after next, when everybody will be coming in to liquidate this public indebtedness. The treasurer is enjoying a continual business now, but it is nothing compared to what prevails the last week of June.

The first half of this year's taxes are due during June, and all not paying by the last of the month has the penalty and other costs added for that half. The last half for this year is not due until next December. The first half amounts to about $65,000 and generally that is the June collection. Most of the smaller property owners generally pay during June the taxes for the entire year, but they do not swell the receipts by many thousands of dollars, as their valuations are small.

The treasurer will collect something like $200,000 from all sources this year.

HE DREW THE LINE.

This tale relates how a bishop, accosted in Fifth avenue by a neat but hungry stranger, derived profit from the encounter.

The bishop, so runs the yarn, took the needy one to a hotel and shared a gorgeous dinner with him, yet, having left his episcopal wallet in the pocket of a different episcopal jacket, suddenly faced the embarrassment of not possessing the wherewithal to pay up. "Never mind," exclaimed his guest, "I have enjoyed dining with you, and I will be charmed to shoulder the cost. Permit me." Whereupon the stranger paid for two. This worried the prelate, who insisted, "Just let me call a cab, and we'll run up to my hotel, where I shall have the pleasure of reimbursing you." But the stranger met the suggestion with, "See here, did you see? You've struck me for a bully good dinner, but hanged if I'm going to let you stick me for cab fare!"—Boston Transcript.

GRAFT AROUSES HELENA FOLK

POLICE FORCE IS DISMISSED. BY MASS MEETING OF LEADING CITIZENS OF HELENA.

City Books To Be Audited—Chief Clancy and Sergt. Duane Allowed to Resign.

Helena, Ark., June 13.—Chief of Police Clancy and Sergeant Tom Duane were allowed to resign from the Helena police department tonight, and every other member of the department was dismissed. Ed Scott was unanimously selected by a mass meeting of 1,000 citizens to succeed Clancy, and the mayor and council, in session at the same hour, ratified the choice. Scott's bond was immediately signed by four citizens, whose combined wealth represents $2,000,000, and he was instructed to at once appoint reliable and honest men to fill the vacancies in the department, which will be done tomorrow morning.

This drastic upheaval is the result of the fights on Monday night between Clancy and George H. Adams, of Pine Bluff, proprietor of the Helena World, and Duane and Adams, which fights grew out of the crusade the World has been making into alleged graft in the police department, especially in the collection of street taxes and vagrancy fines. From the state of the public mind it seems that the people believed the charges, and the fights precipitated action from a quarter unexpected by those involved in the affair.

A meeting of the mayor and council was held last night to investigate the alleged assaults on Mr. Adams, and several hundred of the leading citizens of the community were present. Owing to the sickness of his wife, Clancy did not appear, and his counsel asked for a postponement until such time as her condition would allow him to be present. This motion was blocked by the open disapproval of the citizens, who would have none of it, and the most that they would consent to grant was a postponement until tonight.

Clancy and Duane took the bull by the horns and presented their resignations to the mayor this morning, and he promptly accepted them. As soon as this became known another mass-meeting was called for tonight, it being the idea of the leaders in the movement to in a measure revive the old town meeting of New England and take their own affairs into their own hands. The determination was expressed to make the servants of the people do as the people wished.

Action of Mass Meeting.

A crowd variously estimated up to 1,000 persons met in the opera house, and Judge R. W. Nichols presided by choice of the assemblage. Speeches were made by Maj. Greenfield Quarles, W. D. Reeves and Congressman Bruce Macon, in advocacy of an investigation of the affairs of the city and a thorough cleansing of the departments so that all corruption might be swept out. It was urged that the books of the city be audited and that if any shortage appeared the guilty ones be proceeded against in the courts.

On motion of Col. E. S. Reedy a committee was appointed to wait on the mayor and council and demand the resignation of the entire police force, and ascertain if it was agreeable to that body for the mass meeting to elect a new chief and also select the new patrolmen. This committee was composed of Col. Reedy, chairman; W. D. Reeves, J. B. Pillow, R. C. Moore and E. C. Hornor. They waited on the council and were met with courtesy and the consent to the proposed action given. The council thereupon accepted the resignations of Clancy and Duane, and let the other men on the force go.

Returning to the mass meeting and making their report, the committee was discharged and another appointed to select a new chief. Ed Scott was chosen, and the choice being a popular one, it was unanimously ratified. The council was notified, and they put the seal of their approval on Scott, who was immediately inducted into office.

An auditing committee was then appointed to go over the books of the city and check them up, this committee being composed of four bankers, one from each financial institution in Helena, as follows: S. S. Faulkner, cashier First National Bank; Gilbert Yaeger, cashier People's Savings; B. Seelig, president Interstate; and Henry Anderson, of Bank of Helena. This committee will go to work at once on the books.

Never before in the history of this town has the public been so wrought up over anything as over this investigation, and there is no telling how far-reaching it may be. The affair in the hands of sober, intelligent leaders of the community, and will be conducted with decency and order throughout.

OLD COUNCILMEN ARE APPOINTED

By Gov. Beckham at Princeton to Fill Vacancies Caused by Decision of Appellate Court.

Frankfort, Ky., June 13.—Gov. Beckham has appointed the city council at Princeton as follows:

George Pettit, Jr., Gus B. Baker, J. B. Cash, Frank Cash, R. M. Pool and W. B. Rich. The appointments are made to fill vacancies caused by the sustaining in the court of appeals of a contest for the offices, which was instituted some months ago.

With the exception of W. H. Rich all of the persons appointed today were candidates on the democratic ticket for councilmen at the November election, 1905, and have served up to this time, being ousted from office by the appellate court decision.

LICKING RIVER ON RAMPAGE

Boom of Twelve Feet Reported and More Water is Expected. Use of Local Boats.

Farmers on the Licking river report 2.14 inches rainfall, with the river 12 feet and rising. This will cause the Licking river to run out, but will not do any damage to floating craft moored above the mouth, as the Ohio river is high and the backwaters extend up the river. The force of the Licking will be checked before it reaches the Ohio.

$8.50 PUNCTURE-PROOF TIRES ONLY $4.80

Regular Price $8.50 per pair. To be received by mail. We will sell you a Sample pair for only $4.80. (CASH WITH ORDER $8.50) NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES.

Result of 15 years experience in tire making. No danger from THORNS, CACTUS, PINS, NAILS, TACKS or GLASS. Serious punctures, like intentional knife cuts, can be vulcanized like any other tire.

Two Hundred Thousand pairs now in actual use. Over Seventy-five Thousand pairs sold last year.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of this specially prepared fabric on the tread. That "Holding Back" sensation commonly felt when riding on asphalt or soft roads is overcome by the patent "Basket Weave" tread which prevents all air from being squeezed out between the tire and the road thus overcoming all suction. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C.O.D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented. We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.55 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel-plated brass hand pump and two Champion metal puncture closers on full paid orders (these metal puncture closers to be used in case of intentional knife cuts or heavy gashes). Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination.

We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. Ask your Postmaster, Banker, Express or Freight Agent or the Editor of this paper about us. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a small trial order at once, hence this remarkable offer.

COASTER-BRAKES, everything in the bicycle line are sold by us at half the prices charged by dealers and repair men. Write for our big BICYCLE Catalogue. DO NOT WAIT. Write us as a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone until you know the new and wonderful offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

COL. POTTER PRESIDENT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD

OTHER MEMBERS OF THE BOARD WILL FORCE HIM TO TAKE THE POSITION FOR WHICH HE IS ADMIRABLY FITTED—NEW POCKETS FOR SEATS WILL ARRIVE NEXT MONTH—GROUND BROKE FOR THE NEW TWELFTH AND JACKSON BUILDING YESTERDAY.

Secretary William Byrd of the school board, yesterday announced that Colonel Joseph E. Potter would be elected president of the body, as nearly all of the trustees had expressed themselves as intending to vote for Mr. Potter, realizing that he is an excellent presiding officer and good parliamentarian, and therefore most admirably fitted for the position which they will compel him to take. Colonel Potter does not want the chair, and has asked the remainder of the board to select some other, but they are determined that Dr. List's mantle shall fall upon his shoulders.

The question of choosing a president does not come up until the meeting of the board the first Tuesday in July.

Pockets for Seats.

The Garand Rapids factory is now turning out the long pockets to go on the back of the new seats bought from that Northern plant for the Washington school auditorium, and it is probable the pockets will be shipped sometime next month, at which time the little short ones now on the backs of the seats will be taken off and sent back to the factory.

The pockets now on the rear of the seats are only about eighteen inches in length and not long enough to hold the children's books. The agent of the factory promised to have the pockets full width of the backs of the seats, but the school trustees made the mistake of not having put into the contract an agreement to this effect. When the seats came they were fitted with short pockets, and the factory was notified of the agreement to make them full width, but the agent claimed he did not agree to this. In order, however, to make the extra cost as light as possible, the factory has agreed to charge the city only the actual cost of making the longer pockets.

New Building Work.

Yesterday Contractor George Weikel started his men to placing the concrete base for the brick foundation for the new building to go up on the Faxon addition property on North Twelfth below Trimble street. The laborers have finished excavating for the foundation, and as soon as the concrete is spread, work of laying brick will be commenced.

Mr. Weikel is to do the brick work at the Twelfth and Jackson street building for Contractor William Locwood, who got the entire contract and sub-let the brick work. Mr. Weikel put his men to work excavating for the structure yesterday. It will be about the first week of July before the brick work is advanced sufficiently for the woodwork to start, and then it will take at least three weeks to get the timber here, it being special orders.

STATE TREASURER
NEVER HAD MONEY.

Odd Experience of First Financial Official of Dakota Territory.

Whiting, Idaho, June 13.—Samuel C. Irish, who is residing here in good health at the age of 97 years, is the only man who ever served as treasurer of a state or territory without coming into possession of any money belonging to the commonwealth. Mr. Irish was the first treasurer of Dakota, and he got the office by driving out a carpetbag United States marshal and getting a new election. This marshal's name was Pinney, and he had charge of the ballots during the noon recess. When the final count showed many more ballots than voters, Mr. Irish, candidate for treasurer, charged Pinney with the fraud and escorted him out of the building.

The result of the new election was sent to Washington, and the government officials declared the second election valid. This was during the administration of President Buchanan.

There had been no tax levy made, and before the collection of the first taxes Mr. Irish was out of office, having taken the field as Second Lieutenant of Company B, one of the two hastily organized territorial troops to fight the Sioux.

Born in Crittenden county, Vermont, in 1810, he went to New York when a young man, and worked as a carpenter until 1855. Coming west that year, he went to Dodge county, Minnesota, where he helped to found the town of Mantorville. After a trip into Missouri and Kansas he located in Dakota.

He has seen territory of 150,000 square miles develop into two of the greatest agricultural states in the world.

Ohio Bill Posters.

Cedar Point, O., June 11.—The Ohio State Bill Posters and Distributors' association began its annual convention today at The Breakers. The meeting is purely a business one and will probably last two days. President Charles F. Bryan of Cleveland is presiding. The attendance includes members from Columbus, Springfield, Newark, Findlay and numerous other points.

Catholic Societies of Louisiana.

New Orleans, La., June 11.—The Federation of Catholic Societies of Louisiana, representing several thousand Catholics, opened its fifth annual convention in the Tulane theatre today. It is expected that in addition to transacting its regular business the convention will adopt a formal protest against the interference of the United States in Congo affairs.

The surest way to get men to be good would be to convince them it was wrong.

EAGLE RENDS ROPE; DROPS MAN 600 FT.

Mother Bird Fights for Young; Foe Nearly Killed By Fall.

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 13.—Fighting with an eagle, whose huge talons cut the rope that held him suspended from a cliff nearly 600 feet above the ground, hurled down the wall of rock and then picked up bleeding and cut in a hundred places, but still conscious, it seems almost incredible that Frank Schrieber was not killed in North Cheyenne Canyon today.

When rescuers arrived they found Schrieber, who is twenty-one years old and of powerful build, clutching a young eagle, which he had taken from its nest and which had tried to escape from him when he reached the bottom. His companion had been killed by the fall and on a ledge near the top of the cliff the mother bird lay dead.

Schrieber and a companion, Andy Weiss, had planned for several weeks to scale Eagles' Cliff and capture the birds, whose nest had attracted the attention of thousands of tourists. The mountain rises sheerly to a height of 780 feet and few persons, if any, ever trod the ground that Schrieber climbed today. It would be impossible to reach the place except by the roundabout route which the young men took in carrying out their plans.

They were armed with a long rope which they swung from a ledge about twenty feet above the eagles' nest as a protection against accident. Schrieber managed to climb down, his companion holding tight to the rope above.

Schrieber had reached his goal and taken two of the little birds from the nest when the mother swooped down upon him. Then ensued a fight that might have meant death to Schrieber on the spot had he not struck the bird with the butt end of a revolver. He had hardly replaced the gun in his pocket when the rope to which he was clinging, weakened by contact with the eagle's claws and the rocks, broke and Schrieber fell to the bottom of the cliff. Several times during the descent his body struck against projecting pieces of rock and to this fact, which broke the fall, he probably owes his life.

The Scramble for Office.

In Alabama there is already a mad scramble for the United States Senatorship vacant by reason of the death of John T. Morgan. In Tennessee two years ago the body of W. B. Bate, was not cold, death had not stiffened his form, before the adherents of one Frazier were busy working upon the legislators dishing out pardons, arousing the ambition of Senators and striving in every way to commit men to their candidate before the people could be heard.

In view of this unseemly exhibition the following from the Nashville Banner is pertinent and most timely and ought to arouse the people into a sense of resentment which will defeat all engaging in such indecent and egotistical contests:

"Politics hasn't any heart. It is mainly appetite. It is eager for the main chance, and doesn't allow sentiment or propriety to stand in the way of attaining its end. If death strike down a man in high office, politics affects to be greatly grieved, but it does not pause at the sight of crepe on the door. It redoubles its efforts to attain to the main chance. It goes to the funeral in sackcloth and ashes and weeps copiously, but between the convulsions of grief it nudges influence at its side and whispers that the interests of the state must be looked after at once and the country saved.

Politics is intensely personal and has the highest and most patriotic opinion of the ego. A great Senator dies, after having given years of splendid public service; a country bows its head in tribute and a great state is sincerely grieved, but politics in its manifestation of the ego exclaims, "The succession is the thing. Here am I?" Funerals are too slow for politics. Why wait until the dead is buried? What's the use of sentiment? The dead can do no more whether lying in state or buried. Politics is practical and personal and in a hurry. "Le roi est mort, vive le roi." "L'etat, c'est moi."

Japs in California.

(Nashville Banner.)
The absurdity of the agitation in Japan over certain incidents in San Francisco is patent to all except the Japanese politicians, who have some sinister reason for inflaming the minds of the populace. Ex-Mayor Phelan, of San Francisco, who is visiting in Washington, says, in an interview published in the Star, of the restaurant incident in his city, which has been made one ground of protest in Japan:

"In San Francisco the Chinese are quartered in one part of the city, while the Japanese scatter all over the city. It seems that they established a restaurant in the union labor section of the city, and depended for support on stray white men who gave them patronage. It seems that two white men went into the restaurant for something to eat, and when they came out they were met by union labor white men, who objected to their patronizing a Japanese restaurant. This led to a row, during which some of the property in the restaurant was destroyed. The motive back of it all, as I understand it, was not one of race prejudice, but simply the objection of union labor people to white men patronizing a restaurant run on a non-union basis, and by people supposed to be hostile to union labor. If it is to become an international question, I suppose we will have to turn over to the Japanese all of our labor problems for solution. There will be no race war in San Francisco and the Japanese there will receive abundant protection. The restaurant incident occurred at a time when the police of the city were engaged in a street car strike and had their hands full."

Concerning the question of citizenship for Japanese in this country, Mr. Phelan says: "The Jap is undesirable for citizenship in this country. He has no home life here, brings no wife or children with him, does not marry in this country, is non-assimilable, supports no schools, no churches, no theaters and takes upon himself none of the burdens of citizenship. If he should be naturalized he would not give loyal allegiance to the United States in case of war, but would turn to his own country at once."

WOMAN'S CLUB.

Shelbyville, Ky., June 13.—Mrs. Charles P. Weaver has won the admiration and gratitude of all state clubs during her two terms of presidency. It is generally regretted that she is not eligible for re-election. The opinion is that Mrs. Letcher Riker will be nominated to fill the office; election of officers will take place Friday morning, after which the new board will vote on the next place of meeting.

Paducah has extended an invitation through club delegates, and a telegram has been received from the Paducah City Council, inviting the Federation to that city. This is a courtesy never before extended by a city council and is much appreciated.

Mrs. Weaver's Address.

Pesterday afternoon Mrs. Weaver spoke of the necessity of concerted action among clubs throughout the state, of the advantage of a broader spirit than that of mere self-culture, on which many clubs are originally founded. She said in part: "Every literary club which adds to its program some little discussion of the great civic questions of the day will soon be repaid for what its members can do along altruistic lines by the broader interest, the deepening of character and the growing and genuine respect in which the club will be held by the community."

"Woman has grown into the consciousness that to develop symmetrically she must be more active, morally, spiritually, intellectually. This activity * * * has taken the form of service to humanity."

"It is conceded that there has never been a better agency for carrying on a campaign of education on any subject than a State Federation of Women's Clubs. It is composed of clubs from all parts of the state, representing all classes, creeds and opinions, all ages and conditions, and that cause espoused by the federation quickly permeates to all parts of the state, and the information so disseminated possibly does more than any other one thing toward moulding public opinion. Legislators do not scorn to ask the support of women's clubs for their measures."

Paducah Ladies Mentioned.

The reception given in the Court of Science Hill last evening was a brilliant affair, followed by a musical in the chapel. The court was attractively decorated with sheaves of green wheat, bound around the columns which support an upper gallery. Rustic seats, banks of palms in the center of the court, and other floral decorations gave the scene all the attraction of an outdoor entertainment, without that disturbing element of uncertain elements.

Many exquisite toilets were worn by the ladies. Mrs. Edwin Post, of Paducah, heavy heliotrope silk, handsome lace and sequins of bodice. Mrs. Flournoy, Paducah, blue chiffon and lace. Miss Caroline Leech has been a striking figure throughout the sessions. Her stylish gray tailor suit of the morning, worn with a very wide sailor trimmed in bright red, with red poppies at her belt, was replaced in the evening by an exquisite crepe de chene in radium tints, shading from shell pink to a deep cerise flounce. Mrs. James Leech wore a black chiffon embroidered in golden wheat and the harmony of the costume was carried out in a handsome gold embroidered wrap. Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker wore a handsome cream colored silk, embroidered in delicate sprays of flowers. Mrs. Weaver wore white lace over white silk. Mrs. C. P. Barnes, a heavy gray silk with an exquisite lace fichu worn in Martha Washington style. Mrs. Luther Willis, of Shelbyville, black net applique, trimmed in jet and lace. Mrs. Lawrence Bartlett, of Lawrenceburg, a Princess gown of flowered silk, Dresden pattern. Two handsome young Shelbyville matrons, Mrs. Alex Goodman and Mrs. Smith, presided over frappe bowls in the court, and after the musicale ices were served.

Notes and Comment.

Shelbyville is suggestive of a summer resort; there are so few men in evidence. Even the male residents of the town seem to have suddenly retired from publicity and the streets are thronged with women. The usual showers drive them all indoors at frequent intervals, and the sheltered court at Science Hill proves to be most attractive rendezvous. Here groups of women may be found at any time of day, engaged in unofficial discussions. From one earnest group came a floating remark:

"When I want to use my toothbrush I hate to have to go to the bottom of my trunk for it," proving that the subject under consideration was not on the regular program.

Scores of Guests.

The hotels and many private homes are filled with guests. The clerk at one of the hotels glanced at the register yesterday after a party of arrivals had just written their names. "Gee, we've got to keep up to the standard," he said to a chance visitor who was killing time at the desk. "Look at that," he pointed to a name, and the other read, "Mrs. Louis Seelbach. 'Makes me so ner-vous!'" said the clerk.

An Averted Cataclysm.

One delegate came accompanied by a large white cat, and was assigned to a room with three other ladies. Strange to say, her room-mates objected to sharing their quarters with Pussy. "But I never travel without her," expostulated Pussy's owner. "We've never been separated." When convinced that the cat could not occupy her room she asked the manager of the hotel to find her a nurse for the cat—"a thoroughly reliable woman"—and Pussy was sent to the kitchen to be guarded by an old mammy. "She was given to me four years ago for a wedding present," sighed the devoted mistress, "and she's never been away from me since."

Mrs. Decker Arrives.

Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker arrived yesterday from her home in Denver, several hours late, but in time to attend the afternoon meeting. All the ladies were eager for a glimpse of this well-known woman, who has done so much in club circles, and has made a most efficient president of the national federation. Mrs. Decker made a delightful little response to the greeting extended to her by the Kentucky Federation.

FORGIVENESS.

(Wait-a-Minute Column Louisville Herald.)

It occurred to us the other day what a remarkable virtue is that of forgiveness.

Did you ever think about it? Not near-forgiveness, because there is a great deal of difference between near-forgiveness and real forgiveness.

Near-forgiveness is the sort that looks sour, and says, "Well, the truth is out. You ought to be ashamed of yourself. I never thought you would do it, but you did. It hurt me very much. I can't tell you how much it hurt me. Still, we won't say anything more about it."

And then, as soon as you've gone, they keep thinking about it, and talk about it, and throw it up to you how charitable they've been.

Every time they see you they look at you in such a pointed way as to remind you of their noble and unselfish and forgiving spirit, until at last, if you are human, you begin to wish that you had been twice as unkind and had done something that really amounted to something.

But we were thinking of the other sort, the real forgiveness.

It struck us how wonderful it was—and it is wonderful.

It is wonderful that any man should possess the great and glorious power to stretch out his hand to his erring brother, and in a flash rub out, efface, utterly annihilate all the unkindness and spiteful things and wounding words and ungrateful deeds that we have done and spoke against him.

Every one of us has that power.

We don't always use it, and it is probably withering for lack of use in some of us, because we've got to exercise our virtues just as we do our bodies if we want them to be of any use to us.

Real forgiveness is to make a thing as though it never happened.

It's a good way to forgive. It's the only way to forgive.

The other sort, that grudges and remembers—that isn't forgiveness at all.

It's only pretending to forgive, and it doesn't do you any good, or your brother, either.

You can love, you can be charitable, you can be honest, you can work with your whole heart; but when, in addition to these you can forgive—when you can say, "Friend, you are mistaken; it never happened"—then you have come very near changing what you know of this old world into a little heaven.

TRIBUTE TO BASEBALL BY SUPREME JUSTICE HARLAN

Well Known Jurist, 74 Years Old, Plays in Game and Wins By Making a Home Run.

In a recent baseball contest in Washington between two local teams the score was tied in the last half of the ninth inning. With two strikes and three balls on him, Harlan hit one over the center fielder's head, and before the ball could be returned to the plate he had made a home run. This would have been an exploit worth while for any player, but it attains to the marvelous when it becomes known that the Harlan who made this winning drive is a man 74 years old, no less a person than Justice Harlan, of the United States supreme court.

Harlan, like Senator Gorman, Judge McPherson and former Gov. Pattison, of Pennsylvania, was a ball player in the early days of the national game, and no absorption in statecraft and legal lore has sufficed to take his mind completely off his favorite sport. Hence, when, at the annual shad-bake of the Washington Bar association, it was proposed to have a baseball game, Justice Harlan was one of the first to volunteer as a player. In making his home run, Harlan had to run every inch of the way. His was not the experience of the hitter who knocks a ball over the fence and has only to jog around the bases to get the credit for it. His hit was within the ground, and to make the circuit before it got to the plate he had to go. That he was able to do so shows that there is plenty of agility in the veteran yet.

The average citizen, remembering the old axiom about a sound mind in a sound body, will be ready to have more faith in the mental workings of a man who has kept his body young, despite the passing of time. Far from detracting from the dignity of the distinguished incumbent of the supreme court seat, the ability of Harlan as a hitter will add to it.

That home run is a human touch, a specimen of Americanism that will go far toward popularizing the venerable judge.

MANY ATTENDED MEN'S MEETING

"CHARACTER BUILDING" WAS DR. SMYLYE'S THEME.

Rector David C. Wright Declines Call to Go to Detroit—Ladies' Mite Society Meets.

The Fifth and Jackson street tent was filled with hundreds of men last evening attending the worship conducted for "men only" by Rev. Smylie, who delivered a strong sermon on "Character Building." In the afternoon he preached on "In Love" and many day worshippers were present.

Dr. Smylie conducts the services this afternoon and evening at the regular hours.

Dr. Pickett daily gets better with the attack of intermittent fever and will be up today or tomorrow.

Declined the Call.

Rector David C. Wright of Grace Episcopal church has decided to decline the call extended to him to go to Detroit, Mich., and take charge of one of the leading churches there. He received the call some days ago and was considering it, but his Paducah parishioners prevailed on him to remain.

Mite Society.

The Ladies' Mite society of the First Baptist church meets this afternoon with Mrs. Harry Lukens, of 1717 Madison street.

DIFFICULTY OF ENDING A LETTER.

"How shall I sign myself? Yours affectionately, sincerely, faithfully or what?" These are queries that often puzzle the feminine letter writer. She has surmounted all the initial difficulties, only to be pulled up short at this last of all obstacles. One ending seems to say too much, another too little. To make a premature advance would, perhaps, endanger a cause. On the other hand, to finish the letter with some form of dispassionate politeness would be equally a failure. What, then, shall determine a choice? In the first place, every letter ending, many as they are in total, has each a separate and distinct significance, difficult, perhaps, to define, but at the same time unmistakable.

To the affectionate, but at the same time cautious and noncommitting person, the phrase, "Your friend," recommends itself as being entirely safe. The careless and familiar correspondent, on the other hand, often contents himself with the somewhat laconic ending, "Yours."

The next series of letter endings comprise those of a decidedly amatory tone, and begin with the simple one, "Yours lovingly." If this be qualified by some addition which limits its meaning, the result is, of course, widely different; for instance, "Your loving friend," "Your loving sister," etc., but standing alone it is decidedly declarative of sentiment of a very advanced stage.

Persons afflicted with an incorrigibly matter-a-fact mind, however, even when treating of the somewhat indefinite things of romance, will still persist in business-like accuracy, and will produce a letter ending some definite and precise information, such as "Your loving sweetheart."

Others with luxuriant, even if un-scholarly imaginations, are wont to produce an interesting number of variations in the original themes, and, taking the first two words, "Your loving ——" will add thereto all kinds of strangely manufactured nouns of endearment, 'novel' even if etymologically untraceable.

A still more rapt condition of entrancement, disclaiming all lesser forms of endearment as inadequate, recklessly commits itself to such comprehensive phrases as "Yours forever."

It would be a hopeless task, however, to try to catalogue exhaustively love-letter endings. They are the product of a chaotic state of mind.

Looking into the philosophy of the thing it may be said that these letter endings, one and all, are like empty cups of various sizes and various capacities, and each can be filled with exactly the amount of feeling and emotion which the writer has the ability to put into them. For practical advice in usage it might be said: Don't choose too big a cup, or people will be disappointed to find out afterwards how little it contained, and don't choose too little a cup or it won't convey all you want to give.

PIECRUST PROMISES.

(By Winfield Black.)

A Denver man made a written contract with his wife the other day and in the contract the wife promised never to go downtown without her husband's consent, never to be jealous of him without cause, and never, no, never, to strike, scratch, butt or slap him.

On the same day the story of that contract was published the telegraph wires told the tale of a Chicago divorce in which an ante-nuptial contract figured largely.

This contract made the man promise to be good; he was not to go to the club without his wife's permission, and if he drank too much he was not to scold if his wife followed his example.

It is significant that both of the parties to each of these contracts are now suing for divorce.

I don't like these people who keep promising things and trying to calm fears that have never been or at least ought never to be roused.

When a man tells me a story and interlards the narrative with assertions that he is telling nothing but the naked truth, I lean back in my chair and begin to wait to see him start to embroider the narrative.

A friend of mine was once drawn into a disagreeable lawsuit. She went to see some queer people indeed, concerning some things in that suit. One of the Queer Persons who my friends went to see stood casually with her back against the street door after my friend had entered the house, and another of the Queer Persons came into the room with her hair hanging down her back and a little dark bottle in her hand.

My friend smiled and said something about the weather.

"Don't be afraid of me," said the Queer Person with her hair down her back. "I've been washing my hair and I'm waiting for it to dry. There's nothing in this bottle but some hair tonic."

My friend had never dreamed of being afraid of the Queer Person until that instant, but after she got out of the house, into the street, she found that the "something" in the bottle was not hair tonics at all, but chloroform.

Now, if the Queer Person hadn't told my friend not to be afraid!

Ever since then it worries me to have people too eager to tell me how harmless they are and how good they are going to be.

Look out for the man who wants to sign a written contract promising you to treat you well, girls; he's apt to be a trifle dangerous.

When found he was walking around in a small circle in a dazed condition, with blood flowing freely from his mouth and nose, bareheaded, with the rim of his hat around his neck, the rest of his hat having been completely burned.

"THIS IS MY 52ND BIRTHDAY."

—Robert M. La Follette.

Robert Marion La Follette, United States senator from Wisconsin and who is receiving some mention as a possible candidate for the presidency on the Republican ticket next year, was born at Primrose, Wis., June 14, 1855. Senator La Follette's two most conspicuous qualities are his ability as an orator and his ability as a political organizer. He received his education at the University of Wisconsin and after his graduation in 1879 was admitted to the bar. From 1885 to 1891 he was a representative in congress. As a member of the ways and means committee he had a prominent part in framing the McKinley tariff bill. In 1901 he was elected governor of Wisconsin and continued in that office until chosen senator. During his term as governor he gave especial attention to legislation affecting railroads and was most active in securing laws in Wisconsin to curb the alleged abuses of the railroads and other big corporations. He was one of the first to advocate the control of railroads rates within the state by a state commission and he brought about the adoption of a measure to tax railroad property by the same system and at the same rate as other taxable property. He also led a movement to nominate all candidates by direct vote, which was enacted into law by the Wisconsin legislature in 1904.

CRIME AND BASE TREACHERY

STORY OF PERRORT ORCHARD
RESUMED AT BOISE, IDAHO, YESTERDAY.

The Monster Admits Many Bloody
Deeds With Absolute Nonchalance
Finish Saturday.

Boise, Idaho, June 13.—The trial of Wm. D. Haywood was resumed at 9:30 a. m., with Orchard on the stand; Boise, Idaho, June 13.—It now seems probable that Harry Orchard who has laid the foundation for the case against W. D. Haywood will be allowed to leave the stand and make way for another witness by Saturday afternoon. The state will not take up much time with the redirect, and this means that the re-cross-examination will quickly be disposed of. Today Orchard is expected to give the details of the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg. The harrowing tale that made a crowded courtroom shudder must once more be told and the murderer will be obliged to show to the jury how cold-blooded and how cruel were the preparations and the deed itself.

The defense has not spared Orchard. His character as a criminal has been delved into until almost every crime in the calendar has been brought home to him. The most remarkable thing about the man is the absolute nonchalance with which he admits the commission of these crimes.

The state will begin the corroborative testimony next week. About 150 witnesses will be here to give evidence in support of Orchard's testimony. It is understood also that certain documentary evidence will be produced, but the nature of this has been kept a special secret.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENED LAST LAST EVENING WITH MANY

MRS. LAURA G. FIXEN HAD HONOR OF OPENING THE ENTERTAINMENT AND DELIVERED A STRONG ADDRESS. DR. STANLEY KREBS ARRIVED YESTERDAY, WHILE DR. KIRTLLEY GETS HERE TODAY—EVERYTHING IS IN FIRST CLASS CONDITION AND A SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR WILL BE CONDUCTED.

The second annual chautauqua for Paducah opened under favorable circumstances last evening, the opening feature being a temperance lecture by Mrs. Laura G. Fixen, of Chicago, who arrived yesterday and is at The Palmer. About 500 people were out, and this is considered unusually good, considering the opening night that is always one of the small ones in point of attendance. The promoters feel proud of the start made and promise the people one of the greatest entertainments ever brought to this city.

The grounds and auditorium are in

LOU J. BEAUCHAMP, The "Sunny Side of Life" Lecturer, first-class condition, being well lighted in the building, and in trim shape upon the outside. The Woman's club elected their refreshment tent yesterday and open for business today, serving nice things to eat and drink. Mrs. Charles Kiger has charge of the refreshment stands, and her assistants for today are: Mrs. Silas G. Bryant, chairman; Mesdames Gus Reitz, H. G. Harmeling, W. J. Hills, Harry Williamson, C. H. Chamblin, Henry Overby, Charles Emery, Harry Meyer (treasurer); Sol Dryfuss, J. A. Bader, James Wilhelm, T. O. Walker; Misses Vir-torium is about 2,500, with the rear seats elevated, while the stage sits at the edge like last year in the tent, so the speakers and others can be in plain view of everybody. General Manager J. H. Shaw put the finishing touches on everything yesterday and is satisfied this city will have one of the most attractive chautauquas he ever promoted.

Mrs. Fixen appears again this morning at 10:30 o'clock, speaking on "Our Relation to the Universe." She came from Chicago yesterday morning and will return to that city tonight.

Dr. Stanley L. Krebs, the noted psychological lecturer, arrived from Chicago yesterday and is stopping at Hotel Craig. He makes his first appearance this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, speaking on "Hypnotism and Suggestion," while he appears many times between now and next week. Dr. James S. Kirtley will arrive today to appear for the first time tonight at 8 o'clock, lecturing on "Yellowstone Park," with stereopticon views illustrating his remarks, the slides being beautifully colored and impressive.

Miss Ruth Hemenway has already arrived, as has Miss Martha Carroll, while Miss Dena Metzger, the remaining one of the concert company, gets here Monday from Bloomington, Ill., her home. The trio make their first appearance in concert Monday afternoon. Miss Hemenway has charge of the class of physical culture, training and light athletics, and tomorrow morning will organize that body. She intended to instruct the boys and girls alone each morning, but since arriving here so many young ladies and gentlemen and older persons have requested her to include them in the class that she has consented to do so, and desires everybody at the grounds tomorrow morning who care to be included.

Mrs. Fixen's Lecture.

After an introductory address by the manager, Mr. J. H. Shaw, followed by some explanations of a business character, the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Laura G. Fixen was introduced and captivated her audience at once. For over an hour she swayed the people at her will, with her logic, wit and happy illustrations. She said there two sides to the temperance question, a dark side and a bright side. The dark side is revealed by the wrecked manhood of a drunken man and the sad face of his broken-hearted wife. She portrayed most vividly the evil influence of the saloon as a dark side of the temperance question. For the bright side she presented the great changes in public sentiment that have taken place in the past fifty years and the growth of a better knowledge of the formation and nature of alcohol. She spoke of the great moral effect necessarily resulting from teaching 200,000,000 school children the poisonous nature of alcohol.

She referred to the great debt the temperance movement owes to the power of the press, using an illustration that was quite unique in its application and was most thoroughly appreciated by the audience.

She paid a beautiful tribute to the influence of woman through all the ages, completing the climax with the statement that the Woman's Christian Temperance Union had proven the mightiest bulwark against which the liquor traffic had ever come to arms. This was the one foe that never compromised, and all the indications go to show that some time in the not distant future this country will stand redeemed and purified from all the sorrow and heartache that follow in the wake of the terrible evils of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

Mrs. Fixen is very much at home on the platform and though having a foreign accent that it quite perceptible is heard with ease in every part of the large auditorium.

The Paducah W. C. T. U. held a called meeting immediately after the lecture and passed a vote of thanks to the members of the Chautauqua program committee for placing a temperance speaker on the Chautauqua program, and appreciation of the fact that a White Ribbon Woman was selected for the place.

It was also moved and carried that this resolution be published in the daily papers.

NO KIDNAPPING.

Mr. Cowell Took His Boy Without Any Force Against Wife.

Mr. A. L. Cowell, of Twenty-fourth and Broadway, has returned from Fulton with his 9-year-old son and states he did not kidnap the boy from his wife who has left him, sued him for divorce, and gone to Fulton to reside with her parents. He says he met the boy enroute to the postoffice and took him away from Fulton, going to his brother's home at Water Valley. There his wife rung him up, asked about the boy, and he agreed to take the child back to Fulton to tell his mother good bye, but she said she did not want to see Mr. Cowell any more, so he came on here, and says he will keep the child himself, unless the courts direct otherwise.

The Chicago police are closing around W. R. Weiboldt, the furniture merchant of that city who is accused of burning his establishment last January and who skipped out with his daughter, both of whom were located in Paducah, but got away before the officers could intercept them. A Chicago dispatch also stated that a Paducah woman had a mortgage on Weiboldt's store, but she has not been seen here for several months. The dispatch follows:

"Chicago, June 13.—The hand of the law is about to close on W. R. Weiboldt, the once wealthy Chicago merchant who fired his store and fled last January. Weiboldt has been tracked to New York by Chicago authorities through the tender agency of his daughter, Martha, with whom he fled, and whose brave efforts to save him gave the clew to the police.

"A letter written by the merchant himself to his brother-in-law, Chas. Stein, 2443 Wabash avenue, was discovered by detectives.

"The final chapter in the sensational drama will be enacted in New York, where the police have been given a trail whereby they can arrest Weiboldt at the command of the Chicago authorities.

IMPERIAL COMPANY MUST PAY FOR WAREHOUSE

HENDRICK, MILLER & MARBLE WON THEIR BIG SUIT FOR J. C. ORR, WHO GETS JUDGMENT FOR $13,000 AGAINST IMPERIAL TOBACCO COMPANY—NANCY C. ORR WILL PROBATED YESTERDAY AND DIVIDES ESTATE—COUNTY CLERK COLLECTING MUCH MONEY FROM DELINQUENT LICENSES—OTHER COURTS.

Attorneys Hendrick, Miller & Marble returned yesterday morning from Princeton, where they won their suit for J. C. Orr against the Imperial Tobacco company and got judgment for $13,000, the full amount asked for.

Orr owned a tobacco warehouse at Princeton and sold it to the Imperial company, but no deed had been executed. Shortly thereafter the tobacco company wrote Orr to make out the deed, and he promised to do so when a party arrived who had a lien on the property. This party came, Orr paid off the mortgage, the lien was released and Orr then filled in a deed and sent it to the Imperial people to see if it suited them, he agreeing to sign it if there were no changes desired by the tobacco people. Before they could send the deed back for Orr to sign the night riders burned the property. The Imperial people then refused to pay Orr the $13,000 on the ground that Orr had never executed a deed, transferring the building and ground to the Imperial people. Hendrick, Miller & Marble brought suit for Orr, who produced the correspondence he had with the Imperial people, this proving the deal had been made. The jury then gave a verdict for the full amount asked for.

Orr Will Probated.

The will of the late Nancy C. Orr was probated in the county court yesterday. She left the home place to her husband, John C. Orr, with the understanding that it is to be a residence for her three daughters, Ora, Bessie and Mary Orr, as long as they were unmarried. Each daughter was willed a feather bed, while if the husband dies the estate is to be equally divided between the children, with exception that any unmarried daughter is to get $100 cash more than the sons. Rev. A. H. Murphy was named as executor of the will that was drawn April 25, 1907, and deceased's signature witnessed by T. J. Murphy and Ella Murphy.

On the document being probated the minister named as executor cept them. A Chicago dispatch also stated that a Paducah woman had a mortgage on Weiboldt's store, but she has not been seen here for several months. The dispatch follows:

"Chicago, June 13.—The hand of the law is about to close on W. R. Weiboldt, the once wealthy Chicago merchant who fired his store and fled last January. waived his right to qualify and some other will be chosen.

Petit Jury Dismissed.

Judge W. M. Reed has finished trial of the different sections before him in the branch of circuit court at Benton and dismissed the petit jurors, continuing in session, the grand jury that is investigating a number of charges laid before it. The judge will let the grand jurors sit as long as there is anything for them to do.

Collecting Much Money.

County Clerk Hiram Smalley is collecting hundreds of dollars from parties who have not paid their county and state licenses entitling them to do business here. Detective William Baker is notifying everybody who has not paid, and his list shows that several hundred are on the delinquent side of the ledger. Under the new revenue law adopted by the last state legislature provision was made for many classes of business to pay license that were not included theretofore, hence there are on the delinquent list many who did not know they were susceptible. On his list the detective has the names of many druggists who have been selling liquor, but forgot to pay their license entitling them to do so. There is due $100 and the penalty from a large number of these dealers, who are paying up fast, along with the others.

Several thousand dollars altogether will be paid into the clerk's hands by the delinquents.

Only one deed was recorded with the county clerk yesterday, it being that wherein J. R. Cooper transferred land in the county to R. Holt for $1,250.

Bankrupt Court.

Referee Bagby yesterday made an order recommending to Judge Walter Evans, of the United States court at Louisville, that the bankruptcy proceeding of Charles Q. C. Leigh be closed, final details having been made in the litigation. The petitioner went into bankruptcy several years ago, but the case has been held open awaiting some settlement of litigation pending in the state circuit court here, and this settlement having been effected, the bankruptcy action is now closed and he granted his discharge.

At Louisville yesterday there was submitted to Judge Evans the American-German National bank lien claims against the E. Rehkopf Saddlery company. The bank contends that it has a prior lien on the $10,000 advanced the saddlery company so the concern could continue business, the financial institution claiming that the money advanced was the same as material advanced and sold a corporation to continue business. Referee Bagby decided against the bank, which then took an appeal to Judge Evans, who has not yet rendered his opinion.

WE USE The KING OF ALL BOSOM IRONERS

WHY?

- First.
Because it irons smoothly, not rough.
- Second.
The button holes, or stud holes match.
- Third.
Negligee shirts with buttons are ironed perfectly and without injury.
- Fourth.
It irons either stiff or pleated bosoms like new, and the "hump" so often seen is missing.
- No other like it in West Kentucky. Satisfy yourself by sending us your laundry.

THE TALE OF A TALE

BY EDITH M. WILLETTTE.

It started on the small sofa in the alcove beside the reading lamp, and there were only two people in the room. One of them stood on the hearth rug, with his back to the fire, looking down on the other as she sat, fingering the MS. on her lap.

"Why do you want to read it?" she asked.

"Because you wrote it," he answered, with great simplicity.
She frowned. "You ought to say, it's because my other stories have been so successful, and I got such nice puffs in the papers!"

"Those reasons may suffice for the rest of the world, but they don't for me!"

Two hours later he stood in his own front hall, turning his pockets inside out by the light of the midnight oil, then he searched the front steps and examined the pavements outside, and finally patrolled a certain street to a certain house till a certain small hour of the morning, when he returned to his abode uttering unholy words.

"What are you looking for?" she demanded on entering the drawing room the next morning.

"Nothing," he answered, rising hastily from an evident inspection of the carpet. His face was pale, and his searching eyes gleamed uneasily over the furniture.

"I thought you might have dropped something," she suggested, casually.
"Oh, no!" he responded defiantly.

"Well, what did you think of it?" she inquired.

"Oh!" he said with a start. "That story of yours? It was great—really absorbing! I assure you it kept me awake until four o'clock this morning!"

"And yet it is comparatively short. You must read very slowly! Do tell me what you like best about it."

"Oh, well," he stammered; "I liked it all immensely, but what appealed to me especially was that—er—some where the heroine—er—gets the best of it."

He felt that he was doing well, but at this point she brought him back to earth.

"Do you think," she asked him, earnest and wide-eyed, "that Gregory ought to have done it?"

"Who?" he asked, staggered for a moment. "What?" And then recollecting himself—"Yes." This stoutly. "I think Gregory was perfectly justified; I don't see how, under the circumstances, he could have done otherwise. I am quite certain that in his place I should have done just the same thing."

"What thing?" she asked, as she poked the fire with her back turned. Then, as he did not answer immediately, she said gently: "I don't think you quite understand what scene I referred to, but I'll show you in a moment if you'll just hand me the MS."

"The MS.?" he queried, blankly.

"The MS." she repeated determinedly.

He took two turns up and down the room, then faced her, crimson and crestfallen.

"I'm extremely sorry to tell you," he said hoarsely, "that your MS. is—the arctic blue of her eyes from the truth upon his lips—is left behind."

"He finished," he said. "I hope you don't need it immediately?"

"N—no," she admitted; "not to-day, but I really must dispatch it to the publishers to-morrow."

"All right," he said. "I'll call in the morning!"

"With the MS.?" she asked him, smilingly.

"With the MS.?" he echoed, despairingly.

And as he went out of the house he held a brief ineffectual conversation with the butler, punctuated with a five-dollar bill, and then paced the street for many hours—a prey to thoughts of forgery and flight.

It was the next morning and he had been talking volubly and long on different subjects when she at length managed to get in a word.

"Well," she asked, "have you got it?"

"What?" he answered quickly. The measles! No! Although you seemed to think so, judging from the way in which you avoided me at the reception last night, and again at the opera afterward. You wouldn't give me so much as a bow."

"I didn't see you," she told him.

"Where—where was I?" he interrupted to explain. "In the dress circle, on the opposite side, with my glasses leveled on your box."

"That was a waste of time," she said impatiently, "and so is this. What is the use hiding the truth any longer? Why will you not acknowledge that you've lost my MS.?"

"Because I haven't!" he answered doggedly. "No!" (As she stared at him in amazement.) "If that MS. has disappeared, vanished irreparably, you are responsible, and you alone!"

He strode to the door, then wheeling round, faced her.

"If I forgot your story," he said harshly, "it was because I was thinking only of you. If I was absent-minded, it was because you were present. If I—er—lost that MS., it was because, well! I suppose you know it—I had already lost my heart. That's all. Good-by!"

And he turned to go. But she was already at his elbow, and there was something in her hand—a typewritten parcel—a MS.

"It has been a pretty bad quarter of an hour, hasn't it?" she asked him, and her eyes were twinkling—"thanks to your stories and mine. But you're not going yet?" (For he was turning to the door knob.) "It isn't late, and besides—"

Here she looked up at him, and—ah, well!—The clock ticked loudly and the are cracked.—Valley Weekly.

BRIGHT GIRL PASSED AWAY

MISS MYRTLE FOWLER SUC-CUMBED TO APPENDI-CITIS.

Body of Mr. Daniel Cunningham Recovered—Will Be Buried Today—Mrs. Nichols' Body Interred.

Miss Myrtle Fowler died yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Illinois Central railroad hospital as result of an operation for appendicitis, and the remains will be shipped today at noon to her former home in Sturgis for burial, the funeral occurring tomorrow.

The young lady resided on North Eighth between Harrison and Clay streets and developed the attack a day or two ago. Yesterday morning she was taken to the hospital and operated on, but the ailment had such a hold on her she could not withstand the attack and shock, succumbing at the hour mentioned. The remains were then removed back to her home and prepared for shipment today.

She was a bright, beautiful young lady of many warm and admiring friends who are delivered a sad blow by her sudden dissolution. She had resided in this city a year or two, having come from Sturgis, and besides her widowed mother, is survived by two sisters and two small brothers.

Remains Recovered.

Yesterday at noon the remains of Mr. Daniel Cunningham were recovered from the Tennessee river beside Owen's island, opposite here, where he was drowned at noon Wednesday. The body was caught by Messrs. George Wade and James Bryant, ship carpenters, who took a long rope, tied hooks to it and dragged the river successfully, catching the body about twenty feet below the steamboat Margaret, off which Mr. Cunningham fell.

The body was taken by Undertakers Mattil & Efinger to the deceased's residence at 621 South Tenth street, and this afternoon at 4 o'clock the funeral services will be held at St. Francis de Sales, with interment at Oak Grove cemetery.

Remains Interred.

Yesterday afternoon the remains of Mrs. Hallie Nichols were buried at Oak Grove cemetery, her relatives arriving from Mayfield and directing interment here.

WIFE NUMBER TWO

Mrs. Frith No. 2 Came Over From Brookport to Testify.

Mrs. Joe Frith, wife No. 2 of Joseph Frith, came here yesterday morning from Brookport to testify against her husband, who is being held in jail awaiting requisition papers that are needed before he can be taken back to Brookport. She says Frith married her under the name of Johnson during February, 1904, and that she has been residing in Louisville and Brazil, Ind., but coming back two weeks ago found Frith's first wife and children at Brookport. She has a little boy two years old by Frith, who was ordered held here in jail until the papers arrive.

SCMITZ GOT HALF OF MONEY.

Abraham Ruef Continues His Evidence in Schmitz Trial.

San Francisco, Cal., June 13.—Continuing his evidence yesterday Abraham Ruef said when he gave the $2,700 to Schmitz, he told the Mayor it was his (Schmitz') share of the $5,000 that had been received from the French restaurants.

Ruef testified that he had in January, 1906, given to Schmitz $1,500, telling the mayor that the French restaurant keeper had paid a second installment amounting to $3,000.

Judge Dunne's temporary court room today was crowded to its capacity, as it was recognized that this was the crucial day of the trial. It was expected that Ruef's answer to the question as to whether he had or had not given the $2,500 to Mayor Schmitz would practically decide what the verdict of the jury would be, and for that reason the interest of the big crowd of spectators was intense.

Drink and Crime.

The recently issued statistics for Great Britain for 1905 show that for England and Wales the non-indictable offenses tried summarily were 729,727. Of these nearly one-third (219,276) were for drunkenness. Drunkenness also accounted for between a third and one-half of the whole number received into prison.

THE TYPE OR WOMAN MAN PREFERS.

If you were to analyze the sentiments of mankind you would find in all probability find that:

90 per cent. like best the women who flatter them.
9.99 per cent. like best the women who are pretty.
or per cent. like best the women who are intellectual and independent.

I think the 90 per cent. is an underestimation. Above all things, the most attractive force is flattery. Not necessarily the open and unblushing "Oh—Lord—Bobby—how—clever—you are!" kind, but the more subtle and refined variety.

"She is so sympathetic!" says the susceptible young man, which means that "she" has listened with a well-simulated expression of interest while "he" has been off-loading his woes or aspirations—which means that "she" had been content to sit tight while he has been talking for hours about himself.

"She is so awfully amusing!" Which means that "she" has laughed at his feeble jokes and has professed not to have heard the stories which guiled the wet and weary days of waiting in the Ark.

"She is such a jolly good friend!" (You can almost hear her telling him that, of course, it was the other man's fault, and he wasn't to blame in any way; in fact, if she had been a man she would have done exactly the same thing.)

Taking it "by and large," there is no quality in womankind so wonderfully attractive as her flattery.

I know clever women who have absolutely enchained men; who have had them captive—nay, walking after them like so many little lap dogs. And these men have been intelligent, worldly creatures who buy stocks and shares and make money out of the transaction—men without a pennyworth of sentiment in the whole of their composition.

And how was it done? Madame or mademoiselle at the first opportunity switched the conversation into the right direction.

"I suppose, really, your work must be frightfully difficult (for the financial man); do you never get confused with stocks jumping up and down?" * * * (For the author) "I cannot imagine where you get your wonderful situations from. Do you make notes?" * * * (For the business man) "With so many hundreds of men under your control, how on earth do you manage?"

If madame—or mademoiselle—wishes the friendship of the acquaintance to continue, her interest in his affairs must not flag. If she really be a smart woman, it never does. If she has only the rudiments of an education, or if she desires the acquaintance to terminate, she may turn the conversation into channels more personal to herself. Foolish woman!

For he does not want to know about her parties, her dresses, the aristocrats she has to tea or the Cabinet Ministers who take her to dinner. He does not want to hear her old stories—heaven knows, he has enough of his own!

"A most amusing thing happened to me the other day," she begins with a smile, and he braces himself to hear a "57 anecdote adopted to a motor car."

Frankly, the woman who talks about herself and will not allow you to talk about yourself is the most unattractive type in the world. I am aware that this definition of a bore is by no means original, but it is certainly true, and will remain true through the ages.

How many women are there in the world, I wonder, who are unhappily mated, and for this very reason; that they have not mastered the art of subtle flattery. How many spinsters are there drifting on to the Maiden Aunt rocks, who did they but draw the bow anchor of flattery, would rise serenely on the deep waters of matrimony. (This metaphor, which strikes me as unusually fine, may be elaborated to suit the taste of the reader.)

When a man tells me that it is the sweet womanly qualities (of some girl or other) that attract him, I know which particular quality he means. When he tells me that it is the beautiful mind, I guess how far that beautiful mind is a beautiful mirror that reflects his mind. When, with an assumption of ignorance which is so fashionable nowadays among the young bloods from Oxford and Cambridge, he professes a wondering admiration for her "jolly cleverness," you may rest assured that she is just clever enough to talk and act down to his level, and not clever to appreciate his wisdom.

Years ago your ultra-intellectual woman complained that man regarded woman as a "toy." In the days when the Ibsen cult flourished this was not true, for at that period the phonograph had not been invented and no toy existed by the manipulation of which a man could listen to just the kind of talk that pleased him best.—London Mail.

GREELEY'S OLD PRIVATE SECRETARY IS INSANE.

DIXON GRES TO GRAND JURY

CHARGED WITH STEALING FROM FRANK PARHAM.

Lizzie Roberts Fined for Running a Bawdy House in "Tin Can Alley"—Notes.

Will Dixon, colored, was held to the circuit court grand jury on being arraigned before Judge Cross yesterday morning in the police court on the charge of breaking into the residence of Frank Parham and stealing some meat and other things. His bond was fixed at $300 and failing to give same, he went to jail.

The court dismissed the warrant charging Will Flatt with breaking into the house of a man named Ross, and stealing corn.

There was dismissed the warrants charging William Grant and Bettie Bunkley with engaging in a fight.

Lizzie Roberts was fined $25 and costs for conducting a disorderly house down in "Tin Can" alley.

William Wood and Thomas Whitlow were both dismissed of the charge of maintaining unclean premises.

The court put off until tomorrow the warrant charging Thomas Mylett with disorderly conduct.

Charles Evans, Ned Pullen and Harry Anderson, colored, were dismissed of the charge of soliciting passengers on the platform of the Union depot.

WILLIE'S ESSAY ON HORSE

WILLIE—"Oh, papa, I have just finished my essay for the last day of school, and I want to read it to you. It's about the horse."

Pa (scowling viciously)—"About the horse, eh? That's a fine start you are making in life. At your age I'd never heard of horses and touts and the one best bet—"

WILLIE—"Why, how funny you're talking, pa. I didn't say anything about bets, or touts, or—"

PA—"That's all right, Willie, I got a little confused. That comes from always having one's business on one's mind. Now, go on."

WILLIE—"The horse is the noblest of quadrupeds. He is found in the highest state of perfection in Arabia, and—"

PA (musing)—"And in the lowest state of imperfection at Churchill Downs."

WILLIE—"What did you say, pa?"

PA—"Nothing, nothing, Willie go on with your reading."

WILLIE (continues)—"And in addition to being beautiful to look at, he is very useful for carrying burdens and—"

PA (bitterly)—"And some folks' money."

WILLIE—"Did you speak, pa?"

PA—"No, I just murmured; I'm past speaking."

WILLIE (resumes reading)—"The horse is generally regarded as man's best friend. He—"

PA (jumping to his feet)—"Friend? Friend, did you say? Well, of all the darn fool essays. Why, the horse is man's natural enemy. There's nothing worse than a horse unless it is a hyena."

WILLIE (amazed)—"Why, pa, you—"

PA (grimly)—"I've got a notion to lick you within an inch of your life. To think that a son of mine would be such a fool. Let me hear the rest of that rot quick. The second setting at Latonia will be—"

WILLIE—"Did you say go on, pa? Well, (reading) 'The horse is very fleet of foot. He can run—'"

PA—"You're a fool. He can't run a lick. Didn't I try for thirty days to make him run at Churchill Downs? On the square, Willie, I think you've got god sense. Gimme that fool truck."

WILLIE (handing over paper)—"I never thought you'd talk like that to your little Willie. I didn't; no I didn't."

PA—"I thought you were going to have some brains. You used to look fairly human (reading). 'The horse is one of the most intelligent of animals.' That much is all right. He's wise because he keeps his mouth shut about what he's going to do. If he was a blasted fool there wouldn't be any show for the bookmakers. I'll just let that sentence stand. It's the only decent thing you've said yet."

WILLIE—"Go on, pa; there's some more."

PA (reads)—"The horse lives on hay, oats, rye and— Well, of all the idiotic statements I ever heard! He doesn't live on any such things. He lives on spring suits, Brussels carpets, new bedroom furniture and the kitchen range. He is omnivorous, carnivorous and pestiferous." (Tears up essay.) "There's nothing worse than a horse unless it's an alligator. Go and write an essay on 'The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring.' In the meantime, step into the library while I knock a little of that ignorance out of your hide. I'm ashamed of you, and that goes even if your mother hears he say it." (Exit Pa and Willie. Three minutes later, squalls from the library.) WILLIE (rubbing the seat of his trousers late in the afternoon, and thinking about supper)—"I wonder if this is why the horse never sits down to eat his meals?"—C. H. M. in the Louisville Post.

ZELAYO BREAKS HIS AGREEMENT.

Nicaraguan Troops Invade Salvador and Capture Acajutla.

Mexico City, June 13.—Nicaragua and Salvador are at war. Late Tuesday afternoon Dr. Manuel Delgado, minister to Mexico from Salvador, received the following telegram from President Figueroa:

"Salvador, June 11.—This morning the revolution captured the port of Acajutla. They were commanded by Gen. Manuel Rivas and came from Corinto on the gunboat Momotomba, armed by the president of Nicaragua. In t's manner Zelaya complies with the treaty of peace of Amapala which was entered into with the intervention of the American government. FIGUEROA."

CLOUDBURST IN BUTLER COUNTY.

Morgantown, Ky., June 13.—News has just reached here from the Deserville neighborhood, about eighteen miles from here, on the Butler and Grayson county line, that a cloudburst fell there yesterday evening, and that all the fencing and crops along the creeks were washed away and destroyed. None of the waterways could be crossed for hours. The entire country was a sea of water for several hours.

REMEDY FOR APPENDICITIS.

Extraordinarily Good Results Said to Have Been Obtained from Collangol.

Consul General Guenther, of Frankfurt, Germany, reports to the department of commerce and labor the successful treatment of appendicitis by means of "collangol," a silver solution. He writes:

"Much has been written on the treatment of appendicitis, principally with reference to the question whether, in a given case, an operation must be performed to save the life of the patient. It would doubtless be a great boon if a remedy could be found to make an operation unnecessary. Such a remedy, it is alleged, has been found under the name of 'collangol.' Collangol is a form of pure silver soluble in water. Chemical manipulations for rendering silver, quick silver and some other metals soluble in water were discovered within the last few years. The antiseptic property of silver has long been known, as, for instance, in the form of lunar caustic, which has also been administered internally. Its use, however, has been very limited. Based upon this knowledge successful experiments have been made by some noted physicians through the use of the soluble, non-irritating and non-poisonous silver in suppurative diseases, as, for instance, in the dreaded puerperal fever and other suppurative fevers.

"Dr. Moosbrugger, of Leutkirch, has now used collangol in appendicitis, as well internally and externally. This treatment, according to his statement in the last number of the Munich Medical Weekly Review, has yielded extraordinarily good results. Within two or three days after treatment a decided improvement was noticeable in incipient cases. In cases where an inflammation of the peritoneum had already taken place, a cure was, however, very slow—often only after weeks of treatment both internally and externally. Excepting two with very severe cases out of the 72 which came under his observation and treatment all were cured without any surgical operation. He claims that this treatment is very much superior to any other, and that he is justified in stating that every case of appendicitis, if early diagnosed, can be cured with collangol without resorting to the knife.

"In view of the otherwise favorable experiences with this remedy it is very probable that his opinion will prove correct. But after all it will require a great deal of very critical observation before it will be safe to dispense with a timely operation, which is capable of saving many lives. The published statements of Dr. Moosbrugger are not explicit enough as to the history of the cases to make a real criticism possible. At all events, his statements deserve careful attention. On the other hand, it cannot yet be stated how long the cure will last. Eight cases of appendicitis can be healed for a time, as is well known; the question, however, is for how long. Further experiments will be awaited with great interest, says the Didskalia."

WHAT LEGAL TERMS MEAN.

Beliefs of the Time When Legal Terms Had a Significance Not Known Now.

To most persons the phrase "This indenture witnesseth" is as much Greek as the common phrase "Witness my hand and seal." Yet 10th are relics of the time when these legal forms carried with them a significance not obtaining at present.

Legal documents were once engrossed upon parchment because paper cost so much more than dressed skin. The parchment was seldom trimmed exactly and the top was scalloped with the knife, hence the term "this indenture." Even where the lawyers have departed from the custom, still obtaining in England, of using parchment for their legal forms the phrase has been retained.

In the same way the signature of "hand and seal" is a relic of those olden times when only clerks and the clergy could wield the pen. It was the custom for the contracting parties to lay their hands upon the document in token of their good faith and there remained a smudge. As these original thumb marks were not easily identified, the gentry added their seals for the purpose of further establishing the validity of the document. It may not be generally known that a seal is still required in law, though the need for it passed with the spread of education, and the bit of red paper affixed by the lawyer is as necessary as the signature to certain documents.

A court of law is a reminiscence of the time when justice sat in the open court yard, and the "dock" is from a German word meaning a receptacle, while, while the "bar" is a Welsh word meaning a branch of a tree used to separate the lords of justice from their vassals.

The entire phraseology of the bench is reminiscent of the earlier days, but, having been proven proper, has been retained.

Twenty-Eight Drowned.

Barbadoes, June 11.—Twenty-eight passengers, including twelve women and children, were drowned by the sinking of the French schooner La Jalouse, from Cayenne for St. Lucia. The schooner sank at Barbadoes last Friday night. Her captain and twenty-one men reached Barbadoes yesterday.

THE WOODEN WOMAN.

HOW SOME PEOPLE LEARNED HER THOUGHTS.

BY I. K. FRIEDMAN.

The occupants of the other apartments in the tenement called her "the wooden woman." The expression on her face, which never changed, was wooden, and even when she moved about she seemed to be carved out of wood.

In the summer when the weather was pleasant she sat outside on the steps, her hands folded in her lap, as if she saw nothing of the life that was going on around her, as if she were completely absorbed by something that was going on in her mind—her mind that everybody thought was as vacant as the stare in her eyes.

Whenever the weather was unpleasant or cold she sat in her kitchen with her hands folded in her lap, the same vacant stare in her big, calm eyes. This kitchen itself was a dark, windowless room, cut off from all light by the surrounding walls, but she kept it scrupulously clean, and somehow it wore a cheerful air even though she was forced to keep the lamp burning there by day as well as by night in order to see.

Moreover, this kitchen contained a hand-made, hand-carved cupboard—tall with old china that sparkled like polished brass—in which she seemed to take a particular delight, for her vacant stare was always turned toward it as if it were filled with associations of happier days instead of plates and saucers. Over the cupboard a clock ticked away—ticked away like her own life, monotonously, without the slightest variation, but with a certain machine-like tranquillity and content.

"If the clock and Mrs. Kirkwood were to change places," said one of her neighbors to another, "I don't think either would know it."

The wooden woman had lived in the tenement for nearly a year and she was never known to say more than "good morning" or "good night" to anybody, not even to her two roomers, who never attempted to break in on her reserve, appreciating the fact that they had a landlady who never interfered with their privacy. If people talked to her she listened with the fixed, vacant expression of the deaf, as if she hadn't heard, nodded as if she understood, but gave no reply.

Once a prying visitor offered to buy her cupboard—a proposition that actually shocked the wooden woman into life; for she changed color, moved her hands up to her face as if to ward off a blow and said plaintively: "Sell my cupboard? How can I? My husband made it!"

"Your husband is a carpenter, then?" asked the visitor.

"Yes, a carpenter and a sailor."

"Where is he now?"

The wooden woman let the question pass unanswered, her hands folded in her lap, her eyes closed as if by speaking she had committed a cardinal sin and as if she were still appalled by the sound of her own voice.

One day the owner of the tenement hired the wooden woman, who was very poor, to do some scrubbing for him in another building that he owned in the neighborhood. But she had scarcely started to her task when she was overcome by the fear that her roomers might return home in the evening before she did and not find the hall lamp lighted. So she rushed back to her kitchen and sat there all day, with her hands folded, listening to the tick of the remorseless clock.

Whenever she left her home, whenever she stepped outside of the circle that habit had drawn around her and within which it had fixed her, she became as panic-stricken, as lost as if she had been removed beyond the borders of civilization and dropped in the heart of an African jungle.

When the spring came the tenement was surprised one day to hear the sound of a woman's voice talking blithely and gayly in Mrs. Kirkwood's apartment. When that same voice burst into rapturous song the tenement was all astounded. But how can one express the tenement's amazement when it came to recognize that the voice belonged to none other than Mrs. Kirkwood herself?

Had she gone crazy?

Mrs. Kirkwood's roomers set the fears of the tenement at rest; the wooden woman's husband had come home unexpectedly late the night before, and his wife was supremely, inexpressibly happy—nothing more.

A thousand questions were asked the informant. Had this Kirkwood been in Alaska? Had he made his fortune there? Had he been in India? Was he going to remain in America or go back with his wife whence he had come? The roomer shrugged his shoulders, declaring he knew nothing about the matter.

Mrs. Kirkwood was rarely at home now. She was trotting about with her husband day and night, to the theaters, to the restaurants, downtown on errands, to the North side on visits, wherever he had a mind to take her, and he seemed to have a mind to take her everywhere. The wooden woman was as completely transformed as if 30 years had been suddenly subtracted from her age and she had been restored to her girlhood.

Then one fine day the tenement learned from the roomer that the husband had gone to parts unknown.

Gradually Mrs. Kirkwood was changed back into the wooden woman. Her songs ceased; her laughter became lower and lower, then it died away altogether; she spoke less and less, then not at all. She sat in her clean, windowless kitchen the five long day, with hands folded, the old vacant stare in her eyes.

The tenement no longer wondered about what she is thinking or toward what the vacant stare in her big calm

OLD HICKORY DESK.

Judge Lewis Jordan, formerly of Corydon, Ind., now chief of a division of the treasury department in Washington, finds recreation and amusement in poking about antique shops and second-hand furniture stores. While nosing around in a Georgetown shop a few weeks ago, he came upon a mahogany desk, covered with dirt and showing the neglect of years. He scraped through to the wood and found it to be a remarkably fine bit of mahogany, so he took it for $25. When he had peeled off two or three layers of dirt, and had cleaned up the drawers, he was amazed to find this inscription: "Presented to His Excellency, Andrew Jackson, by his friend, Caleb Pierce." Mr. Jordan was delighted and at once began an investigation. He found that the desk was the one which Old Hickory had used while president of the United States. The association of ladies who take care of "The Hermitage," the old Jackson home near Nashville, are negotiating with Mr.
 Jordan for the purchase of the desk.

CAT FELL FIFTEEN FLOORS,
 BUT WAS NOT INJURED

Chicago, June 11.—This is a story about a cat, the pet of the Midway club, that fell fifteen stories in the area way of the First National Bank building and is alive and well.

The animal plunged from a window of the millionaires' lunch-room on the eighteenth floor in the big loop sky-scraper to the skylight of the bank quarters on the third floor.
 The heavy wire screening above the glass was bent and twisted by the impact and a few pieces of glass fell to one of the clerks' cages on the floor below, but the cat escaped uninjured. Fifteen minutes after the fall the animal returned to its quarters in the eighteenth-floor lunchroom.

Choosing probable death down the light shaft in preference to a struggle with a Boston terrier, the animal leaped. As a group of the lunch-ers reached the window they heard a crash on the heavy glass skylight fifteen floors below.

All believed the cat had been crushed to death. A quarter of an hour later, while the "horrible death" was being discussed at a score of tables, the frightened cat came back. It slunk toward the kitchen and disappeared.
